Introduction

Planets and Points in The Signs

Sun in Virgo 17° 57' 01"

The Sun in the chart shows our character, personal identity, and ego. It represents our will to live and our creative life force. Just as the planets revolve around the Sun in our solar system, we derive our life purpose from the Sun in our natal charts. The Sun is our "adult"—the part of us that censors our "inner child," reasons things out, and makes final decisions. The Sun also gives clues to our overall vitality. The Sun directs us and can be considered "the boss" of our chart.

When people ask you "What's your sign?", Virgo would be your answer. Technically, though, it's your Sun sign that is Virgo, and you're made up of many different signs.

Virgo Suns who are stuck in the practical, material world may learn a lot about themselves if they are brave enough to try placing their lives on automatic pilot once in a while. Letting some things go can do wonders for their spirit. Virgos tend to be too hard on themselves. They worry about their health, their performance at work, all the things they haven't done, and the emails that might be waiting for them while they are away from their computer. When they're not feeling well, they can be overly critical and nervous. They fuss around, have a whole slew of assorted little complaints, and throw small tantrums.

Solar Virgos are perfectionists—there's simply no escaping it. They dream of mastery; they long to do something really well. Some Virgos are so scared of their own perfectionist qualities that they tell themselves they don't care. Others will forever dabble into one thing or another, leaving a string of unfinished projects behind them. However, the happiest Virgos accept their need to get things right, without overdoing it. Probably the best advice for Sun in Virgo people is to find something that interests them—however small or large—and master it. Virgos are often content being an assistant or hard worker as they are rarely dazzled by positions of power or spotlight.

As a Virgo Sun, you are helpful, kind-hearted, diligent, and supportive. You are likely to be very private or fussy about your work or your personal workspace. You're likely to become nervous when others look at your unfinished work, and you can be quite protective of your methods. Despite some struggle with lack of confidence, Virgos can be mighty proud—even arrogant—when it comes to their work, routines, or hobbies. Secretly, they think their methods of doing things are the best. Often, they are! You are likely to take pride in the little things you do, even though, in a broader sense, Virgos can be somewhat self-effacing and self-critical. Few can argue the fact that what you do, you do very well.

Your curiosity is sometimes mistaken for passion, which can surprise some people. The surprising part is that Virgo, although knowledgeable, doesn't always get its hands dirty. Your willingness to explore is often kept at the intellectual level.

However, you're likely to be well-respected and valued in your circles for your loyalty, research skills, willingness to lend a hand, and excellent powers of observation. Virgos are usually kind and helpful souls who, when appreciated, bend over backward to make things work.

The sign of Virgo is associated with work, service, daily routines, health, and habits. You can be particular about food and nutrition and especially invested in your work. You genuinely love being of service to others, as long, of course, that your support is appreciated. It's true that compliments can make you feel awkward at times, and so you don't actively seek them out, but when sincere ones come your way, you feel good. You are conscientious and reliable.

Not many people thrive on criticism, but Virgos are particularly fearful of it. They do their best to do their best and can take blame or criticism to heart. Virgos are self-critical and can be their own disciplinarians as a result. Calling out a Virgo can be counter-productive. Chances are good they already know and are working on it!

As a Virgo, you are adaptable and flexible, and you often go out of the way to accommodate others. You're also very resilient, and although you are a sensitive soul with sometimes frayed nerves, you are persevering and recuperate well. You're also an Earth sign and very practical and often cautious. You're noted for your forethought.

You have an exceptional eye for detail. This can lead to a nit-picky way, of course, but your powers of observation are usually appreciated and used for good. It's difficult for you NOT to see the flaws. You'll probably need to address and manage this trait at some point in your life so that you don't allow it to work against you.

There's an odd combination of the intellectual and the practical in Virgo that is sometimes mistaken for coolness. In fact, Virgos are often self-effacing and shy. They'll brush off your compliments quickly and, occasionally, critically; but don't let that fool you. They enjoy your respect and appreciation. In fact, the happiest Virgos are the ones who feel appreciated and useful. Add plenty of worthwhile projects to keep them busy, and Virgos can be some of the sweetest, kindest people around.

Your Sun sign is modified by various factors, including the aspects it makes to other planets and points, its house position, the house with the sign the Sun rules (Leo) on its cusp, and your Mercury sign since Mercury is Virgo's planetary ruler. These positions add more layers to the Sun in Virgo interpretation. Virgo is a Mutable Earth sign. More on Virgo.

Ascendant in Scorpio 18° 55' 48"

The Ascendant defines, in part, the first impression we make on others in a personal rather than professional sense. It represents our physical appearance, our physical bodies and overall health, and the body ego. It can be the mask or costume we wear to greet the world. It reveals our natural and personal defense mechanisms that we use to adapt to - and cope with - our environment. The Ascendant also shows our first impressions of the world around us and our expectations of same—whether we are naturally hesitant or enthusiastic, for example. How we begin new projects and our attitude towards new experiences come under the rule of the Ascendant.

Scorpio Ascendant people have a lot of presence. There is something about them that tells the world that they are not to be pushed around. Their manner commands respect, and in some cases, fear. With your Scorpio Ascendant, you can be quiet or loud, but you always seem powerful and determined, regardless of what's going on inside you.

People either love or hate you - you are unlikely to go through life unnoticed. In fact, you might even find it confusing when you realize that you elicit such strong reactions from others. You seem to look right through people, seeing through superficiality. This can be quite intimidating to some, and intriguing to others!

In your dealings with others, you perpetually and instinctively look for answers by reading between the lines. Surface details are often quickly discarded when it comes to feeling out a situation or people around you. You can amaze people with your ability to sum up a situation or individual very quickly and often very accurately.

As quickly as you assess a situation, you're not always as fast to begin a new venture or to make decisions. This is usually because once you've made a choice, you throw so much energy into it that you need to be immensely sure of what you're starting.

You may value your privacy so much, it can border on paranoia. You have a high need to control your environment, and you are an expert at strategy. You are very unlikely one to blow your chances with impatience -- you tend to plan out your moves carefully and deliberately, relying on your remarkable ability to size up anything and anyone.

As a child, you may have been typecast as the secretive one and either as stoic or emotional (either extreme). If you overidentify with this image, it can be difficult to break out of it when it would serve you well to do so. It can be tough for you to reveal that you're vulnerable, but you may need to do so from time to time, or you could feel very much alone at times. You may come across as critical or sarcastic - certainly, your outer shell can be on the hard side. What's on the inside depends on the rest of your chart!

You can be fiercely loyal and determined. You are not one to do something halfway! You are brave and ready to take on a challenge, at the very least on the surface of things. Emotional intensity attracts you. Mysteries, investigations, and psychology are attractive.

You can be highly persuasive, hypnotic, and magnetic.

You might hold a double standard in that you want to know all about someone you're with, but you're not always particularly forthcoming. Your feelings and sometimes your opinions can be extreme - you are not a middle-of-the-road person!

Causing others discomfort isn't often a deterrent from doing, thinking, and expressing yourself. You'd rather live authentically than worry too much about surface harmony.

You are not an individual who is easy to know. However, you often wonder why others misunderstand you as you feel you are more genuine than most people. Indeed, you can never be described as superficial even if you don't always have your cards on the table - your manner is too intense for any of that.

You might find that you're often drawn to down-to-earth, natural, sincere, simple, or unaffected partners. Reliability in a partnership is also a strong draw. You don't start things easily, and you don't let go of them easily, either. You may be one to look for complete commitment or honesty depending on your relationship approach, and you can have little patience for flighty partners.

The conditions of Pluto and Mars, Scorpio's ruling planets, by sign, house, and aspect will give you further details about (and modifications to) all of these things. More on Scorpio Rising.

Moon in Cancer 25° 12' 55"

The Moon in the signs reveals much about our habits, reactions, and instincts. It shows how we express and deal with our emotions. Most obvious in our homes or in private, our Moon sign reveals our innermost needs. The Moon can represent our experience of nurturing; it also shows how we nurture ourselves! It's important to note that Moon signs change every 2 or 2-1/2 days, and on some days, can be one of two signs, in which case an accurate birth time is necessary.

You were born with the Moon in the sign of Cancer. The Moon sign is a vital part of your personality, representing your emotional, natural, familial nature. In other words, when you're at home or in familiar, natural settings, you're most like your Moon sign! The Moon happens to be "at home" in the sign of Cancer, as the Moon is the natural ruler of the sign.

With your Moon in Cancer, you are very able to get in touch with the feelings and moods of others. Often, you can be considerably wrapped up in yourself and the world of your feelings, too. Your memories of the past are outstanding, especially for all things emotional. You are never detached -- you cling to things, your home, and people you care for. You seek out security and familiarity in all that you do. You look for peace and quiet. Your attachment to all that is safe means you can be a little leery of change.

Moon in Cancer people are peace-loving souls who dislike superficiality in all of its forms. With your Cancer Moon, you are devoted and accommodating. Some people with this Moon position accumulate things in an attempt to feel secure.

Because of your strong attachment to, and memory of, the past, people in your life may complain that you dwell a little too much. In truth, you may dwell on hurts long after everyone else has moved on. When you feel you've been taken for granted (which may be often!), you may not always confront others directly. This is when you're inclined to use roundabout ways to get others' attention. In fact, when you're feeling insecure, you can become quite manipulative. You can also be somewhat of a slave to habit.

You can have a marked difficulty compartmentalizing your life simply because your Water sign Moon (as opposed to Fire, Earth, or Air signs) tends to know no boundaries. Sometimes, as a result, you may seem to others that you're acting irrationally. In truth, it's because you are guided more by feelings than ideas.

One of the most delightful characteristics of Moon in Cancer people is their loony sense of humor. You can be extraordinarily funny. While your moodiness can sometimes baffle others, your unique outlook on life is something most people can appreciate.

When treated with tenderness and understanding, you'll return the favor with warmth and protection. If others give you security, they'll take the crabbiness out of the Crab, at least for a while. This is a domestic position of the Moon.

Even though you can be up and down on the inside, you are wonderfully dependable overall. Occasional mood swings are part of the package deal, and totally worth it. Make a genuine friend of Moon in Cancer, and you will be taken care of for life.

Mercury in Virgo 7° 06' 42"

What's your style of communication? How do you make decisions? How do you pick up, process, absorb, and exchange information? These questions are answered, in part, by Mercury's placement by sign in your natal chart. Someone may be an assertive Aries, but they could also have Mercury in Taurus, with a style of communication that's slower, patient, and not quite as spirited as one would expect from an Aries, as an example. Mercury refines the Sun sign, and it helps to define how we take in--and give out--information.

With Mercury in Virgo, you're unlikely to be flashy in your communication style, but you do thoroughly appreciate it when others acknowledge your brainpower. You thoroughly enjoy keeping track of all the details. You can be a little high-strung when things are not orderly or when things seem out of control, so you put a lot of energy into taking care of day-to-day, practical matters.

You excel at organizing, planning on a short-term scale, and doing errands. You may not enjoy big-picture thinking, finding yourself more comfortable with detail work. You pay your bills on time, enjoy learning the details of a trade, and generally don't balk at organizational tasks. You function best when you (or others) have laid out exactly what you have to do. Guesswork is not your cup of tea! You're generally prompt at responding to others (although if you have a Leo Sun, perhaps less so), and you're often willing to lend a hand to others by doing research and legwork for them.

Generally, you're considered useful in your work and with friends since you have a handle on the details. You're reliable and prompt, too!

Although you're capable of learning a lot, you seem to need an orderly environment in which to learn and study, in addition to organized study methods. You pick up a lot of facts and figures, and you learn your own trade well, but there can be times when you have trouble truly absorbing the knowledge you collect on a deeper level. Although resourceful, may not be as strong a lateral thinker as, for example, someone with a Water sign Mercury.

You often appear humble, and in many respects you are, but you can become quite protective regarding the handling of your day-to-day affairs. You tend to feel that you're the only one who can get things just right, and you may very well be correct! You can be impatient with others, take on more work than you should, and then complain that you're doing all the dirty work. However, you have a fantastic eye for flaws that others overlook entirely, and your powers of analysis are virtually unmatched.

Venus in Leo 16° 13' 39"

How do you attract things, situations, and people into your life? Venus rules our sentiments, what we value, and the pleasure we take in life. Grace, charm, and beauty are all ruled by Venus. Through Venus, we learn about our tastes, preferences, artistic inclinations, and what makes us happy. We look to Venus in the natal chart to see how we approach relationships of the heart, as well as what gives us pleasure. We also turn to Venus to show how we spend our money, the types of gifts we buy, and how much we spend on leisure activities (not to mention the kinds of leisure activities we seek). Venus rules attractiveness--both the ability to attract and attraction to others (and things). Venus rules, amongst other things, the arts, love and romance, beauty and the beautifying process, money, entertainment, leisure, sensuality, and comfort. With your Venus in the sign of Leo, the Fixed Fire sign, you are proud and affectionate in love. This is especially the case if your Sun is in outgoing Leo, but is also true if your Sun sign is humble Virgo or retiring Cancer, in which case you'd be more demanding or colorful in love than you are in other areas of your life, or even generally speaking.

This sign position of Venus loves to court and be courted, and needs to feel very special--put on a pedestal, even. You are warm, generous, and even grand. You love to delight a partner through gifts, individual attention, and affection. Though you're really quite loyal to a lover (love may very well be THE most important thing in Leo's life), you thrive on romantic attention. You can show off a little to get a partner's attention, but you're not quite so happy when others show interest in your partner!

You're likely to have high expectations, but if you're getting the attention you crave from your love relationship, you're one of the most big-hearted partners around. You may feel a little threatened by a relationship that seems a bit too settled, even though you do seek long-term stability. You want to keep the spark alive--eternally! You're also turned off by indifferent or impersonal behavior in a partner.

While your sex drive is likely substantial, your need for love is quite a bit stronger. For you, love, affection, and attention can be at the heart of most every fantasy, even the raunchiest. You're unlikely to last very long in a relationship that is less than loving and affectionate. On the flip side, you may stick around much longer in a love-only scenario than most.

Pleasing you in love involves treating you as unique, special, and number one. Leo wants their partner's world to revolve around them. Perhaps most importantly, your partner should frequently remind you how important you are in their eyes. Respect, appreciate, and adore you—that's all you ask! When insecure, you can be given to childlike moments, tantrums, tall tales, and drama. In fact, you can lose interest in a partner if you feel they've lost interest in you, and it's vital that a partner reminds you that you're attractive and desired. Watch the tendency to want to make a partner jealous, since a partner's small jealousies can feel like affirmations that they find you attractive and a prize, not just to them but to the rest of the world as well.

When you feel appreciated and loved, you are wonderfully loyal, have a big sense of fun, and physically affectionate and demonstrative. You're generous with your heart, attention, and money when you're in love. You want your gifts to stand out as the best, biggest, or most thoughtful.

Your fantasies and desires often revolve around devotion and attention. You want to be the best in your partner's eyes! You can be quite possessive and jealous. You may put your partner to the test every now and again, and the more insecure people with this sign position will demand the world from their partners if only to have them prove their love. You may want more than anything to impress a partner. You may come on a little too strong at times, and you can get impatient quickly. However, you're direct and open, which are desirable traits that are on the rare side, and your partner should appreciate these qualities if they're to understand you.

Love is magnificent and grand in your eyes, and you take pride in love and your love relationships. You can be warmhearted, teasing, expressive, proud, and extravagant in your love life and with your hobbies, pastimes, and leisure time. Love is a bit of a game-- a perpetual game--as Venus in Leo may be forever stuck in the romance stage of a relationship. You feed on attention, acknowledgement, validation, and adoration. Venus in Leo loves to be adored, pampered, and admired. You hold a strong ego investment in your love life. The negative expression of this placement is overstating of feelings just for effect, as well as extravagance.

Venus in Leo people may spend a lot on entertainment or sometimes only to show off! They generally are big tippers and give special and generous gifts. They're attracted to art, furnishings, clothing, and music that is bold and passionate, renaissance, lush or opulent, lavishly comfortable, and romantic.

My Personal Ad Bio: "I'm warm-hearted and fun. I'm funny and experienced. Let me show you a good time."

With Venus in Leo, you can be very proud in your social life, regarding money, and in love. You are not only loyal to someone you love, but you are also usually very loyal to your feelings. However, you can also be stubborn with your feelings due to this great pride. You stand out for being kind, and this is something about you that's easily recognizable unless Venus is well-hidden or challenged in your chart.

When you feel good about a relationship or connection, you're on top of the world. You might also treat a love relationship as if it were your work of art. You want your partner to be your hero and sometimes treat them as such. You're highly creative and some would even say colorful. With money, you can sometimes be extravagant or lavish, but you're also proud and will take care of things accordingly. You can be relatively lucky.

Mars in Virgo 0° 25' 44"

As a productive and busy person, you are goal-oriented and practical. Although you can be a little scattered at times, only because you are doing so many things at any give time, you get things done—quite well! You may have a knack for handling a wide variety of tasks at once, and a tendency to take on perhaps too much at the same time.

Mars in Virgo natives like yourself are usually not particularly aggressive by nature. Although you can be a little hard-nosed and critical at times, you rarely resort to pushing others around. Still, you might be difficult to be around if you are annoyed! Should anyone arouse your anger, you might turn into a bit of a nag. Generally, you don't make yourself a nuisance, however, so this stage is unlikely to last for very long. It is a sensitive position of Mars, however. It doesn't take much to make you nervous.

You are quite protective about your "system" for getting things done. Although rather humble in a general life sense, you can be quite particular about your methods—how you organize your things and accomplish your goals, mostly with work. Yours is nervous energy. Although you have some staying power, you can be restless and are not given to sticking with the same projects for too long.

You may derive plenty of energy and life force from the things you do—your work, hobbies, and any projects you take on. It is a sorry sight, indeed, when you are stuck being idle. Fidgety, nervous, worried...all of these things are a sure sign that you have either too little to do, or far too much on your plate. You are a perfectionist at heart. You'll be the first to deny this, but it's there! You may worry when you are not producing anything, and you worry about whether what you've produced will measure up.

There's often a shy and humble side to you in any area that involves putting yourself out there and letting go (areas ruled by Mars). But experience and knowledge are important to you, and this drive generally wins over your natural reticence. You can be wonderfully organized and ready for most anything that comes your way. People can count on you, and you're often particularly willing to help others out.

Jupiter in Aquarius 7° 56' 43" Rx

Jupiter in Aquarius individuals like yourself attract the best fortune when they are tolerant and fair, inventive, impartial, and cooperative. You are at your best when you have freedom of choice, when you can break a few rules, and when you think outside of the box.

You value people and personal freedom most. You want to show a unique perspective or original and unique skills and talents. You are open to new methods and progress. You exhibit great tolerance and humanitarianism.

As an Air sign Jupiter, you are mentally adventurous, ready and willing to learn, into "mind expansion," and less attached to your values than others because you are generally quite impartial and open-minded. One of your many strengths is your ability to see many sides to an argument.

Saturn in Scorpio 23° 11' 23"

Saturn in our charts shows where we limit ourselves due to fear or insecurity. With Saturn in Scorpio, you may feel uncomfortable expressing or identifying with your deeper, more irrational emotions such as jealousy. However, denying these things or their expression can limit you.

You may have a hard time admitting some of your emotional vulnerabilities or your desire for emotional intimacy, perhaps even to yourself! Opening yourself up completely can be challenging--it doesn't come naturally, but with work and effort, you can get there. There can be some tendency to brood or to go cold and silent if you expect others don't care enough about your feelings. However, it's essential to recognize that you can run hot and cold on this level--you may yearn for understanding and empathy, but you can feel uncomfortable if you get this attention! Trusting a confidant can be a challenge but also a genuine relief since you bottle up your feelings often to your detriment.

You may also need to work on your attitude towards change, transformation, and growth. A deep fear of change can keep you stagnating in situations that aren't good for you.

More clues and refinements to your Saturn lessons in life come through Saturn's house position and aspects.

Uranus in Sagittarius 14° 06' 43"

You're most interested in making changes, innovating, and updating traditions related to beliefs, the seeking of meaning, freedom of speech and thought, philosophies, attitudes, religion, cultures, education, spirit, and vision. You seek more freedom in or through these areas, and you don't feel much need to conform! You may believe in breaking through some of the inhibitions or taboos related to preconceived ideas as well as current education and belief systems. Despite the need for progress, you can be very stubborn and set in your ways in these areas. You may challenge authority or rules and laws in place only if you feel they are limiting our progress, seeking to revolutionize the ways we view others, different cultures, and belief systems. You are optimistic and believe in progress and change, although you are not always as interested in the details of a particular pursuit as you are the big picture or vision. Since you believe in the power of inspiration, rote learning can be unappealing. You have an excellent feel for trends and work best on inspiration, impulse, and intuition.

Neptune in Capricorn 0° 50' 52" R_x

Your vision of an ideal world may center around respect for rules, order, responsibility, and morality. You need to believe in the realizability of your dreams, and this means that your fantasies usually have a very realistic thread to them. There is a conservative, possibly somewhat cynical element to your nature. Because a general optimism or faith do not typically carry or motivate you, energy levels may not be high when you don't believe in what you're doing, and inspiration is not easy to find in the first place. However, you can turn a dream into reality more than most. Your vision is practical but also doable.

Pluto in Scorpio 2° 54' 59"

Your feelings about intimacy, sexuality, dependency, attachment, and support are intense. You can readily go to extremes as you seek a deeper connection to someone or a special project or goal. The quest to distinguish yourself in any of these areas can be so fraught with pressure at times that you rarely allow yourself to feel content and satisfied. You may need to work harder than most to let yourself to be anything less than strong. You are not afraid to call evil for what it is. You are a rare combination of compassionate and practical. With Pluto working at its best, you are brilliantly perceptive and understanding--quick to see the many different layers of any given situation.

Chiron in Gemini 14° 35' 57"

You believe in the power of the mind and the concept of "mind over matter," as well as the power of conversation, expressing oneself unapologetically, and so forth, but you don't always practice this yourself. In fact, you can either speak too much or too little, or more likely, swing between these two extremes, never feeling entirely comfortable talking, feeling guilty for saying too much or too little, and questioning whether you represented yourself accurately. You're quick to help others with information and advice, and very skilled at it. Most importantly, your desire to help is genuine.

You may have felt shame for self-indulgence, not sharing, holding onto possessions too tightly, or for enjoying yourself without apology. You may feel guilty or wrong for doing these things, which can lead to all sorts of behaviors, whether it's about hoarding, purging, or in between these extremes, but feeling ashamed for indulging oneself or getting comfortable is the bottom line. As a result, you may have a hard time feeling truly satisfied or sated, but you also fear the state of wanting. Perhaps you were punished in some manner for being slow, savoring things, or enjoying and indulging yourself, and now you feel wrong whenever you do. Empower yourself by accepting your genuine, human needs to languish from time to time.

North Node in Taurus 10° 39' 48" R_x

The theory behind the Nodes of the Moon (the North Node and South Node) suggests that we all come into this world with some underdeveloped and overdeveloped aspects of our character. The Nodes of the Moon point us to these specific qualities: the South Node represents our overdeveloped character traits that we automatically fall back upon. We're talented here, but if we overdo this area of life or hold onto these traits to feel secure, we may undermine our lives or prevent growth. On the other hand, the North Node suggests the qualities that we need to work on and develop to achieve inner balance.

With your North Node in Taurus, your South Node is naturally in Scorpio.

This position can point to a tendency to define your worth and value in terms of your significant others, to be wrapped up in the needs of others at the expense of your own needs, and to attract confusing and intense life situations at the cost of comfort and peace. Your path is to discover and embrace your own values, to depend on yourself and to establish your self-worth through your own efforts, and to enjoy life's more quiet moments without the subconscious need to create crises. Watch for a tendency to invest too much time and energy into supporting others, and focus on some level of independence so that you can bring back more balance to your life.

You could find that success comes more readily for you when you attend to the details, use your considerable analytical powers, and help others. Your ability to find the flaws of a plan is excellent. You might also have special technical abilities. In fact, you find joy through your attention to detail. Attention to your health or organizing your environment can also be areas of skill and enjoyment that you might share with others for benefit.

Look to Virgo's ruler, Mercury, for more clues to where and how you improve your lot in life.

Vertex in Cancer 3° 21' 12"

Midheaven in Leo 29° 00' 02"

You need to feel in charge of your destiny, and you're a natural manager or leader. A lot of heart and personality go into your career, responsibilities, reputation, or life path goals. Your ego is also strongly involved!

With a Fixed sign Midheaven, you don't take a path or career lightly, and you don't readily jump onto or off a track. You do things with extra flair or drama. You're proud, and the image you project is something you need to feel not only good but great about. Whatever you feel on the inside, you project an image of confidence to the public. You prefer to be the boss or, at the very least, dictate your own direction.

You stand out rather than blend in. In fact, you shine in what you do, and you make a strong personal mark in your field. You can be skilled at self-promotion, but you also project such a warm, strong image that others want to promote you as well.

You can also be quite organized when it comes to planning and long-term objectives. With your career, you're determined, persistent, honorable, competitive, and passionate. Often feeling like you are on stage, you enjoy performing and gaining recognition. You also expect a lot from yourself, and you want the best-- and to be the best-- in your chosen field. Once in a position, ideally an important one, you're exceedingly loyal and committed.

You might see your parents or caregivers as especially strong personalities, with one far more outgoing and personal than the other.

The Sun's position in your natal chart by sign, aspect, house, or condition, can give more clues to how you present yourself professionally or publicly and how you approach your responsibilities, long-term goals, status, and reputation. It can also point to your career potential.

Planets and Points in The Houses

Sun in Tenth House

The Sun's house position modifies and refines its position by zodiac sign. With the Sun in your tenth house, the urge to work toward a goal, for success and accomplishment, and/or for power is an essential part of your makeup. You are uncomfortable in any position in which you must "take orders" from someone else, although if it furthers your own goals to do so, you'll do your best in this role. Recognize your ambitions and your need for authority without going overboard. Seek out a career that allows you to manage, rather than be managed, if possible. It is crucial that you accept the part of you that is ambitious, but take pains not to over-identify with an image that is not really you! There is undoubtedly a very responsible, goal-oriented side to you. It's natural for you to work your way up the ladder. Your strong, determined personality is often well-received, although there can be friction with other strong personalities from time to time.

NOTE: Since Sun is very close to the next house cusp, the next item is also relevant.

Sun in Eleventh House

The Sun's house position modifies and refines its position by zodiac sign. With the Sun in your eleventh house, you are a humanitarian who aims to treat everyone as equals. You are unique and original, and you do your best to avoid bias and prejudice. Social status is less important to you than belonging to a group of diverse personalities. Your identity, in fact, is somehow linked to a larger unit than yourself. You have high hopes and goals and tend to look at life in terms of opportunities. You have magnetic appeal, as people sense your broad tolerance and openness. The friendships you establish are crucial to your development. If you identify too much with your associations and your friendliness or ability to build bridges, you may become too impersonal and alienate those who would like to get close to you. You are a team player and can have a significant impact on groups and among friends and networks.

Moon in Ninth House

The Moon in the houses can reveal where and how we go about seeking emotional satisfaction. If it's an issue, we can discover vital clues to the reason for perpetual emotional unrest through the study of the house position of the Moon, and these can manifest as constant changes or ups and downs in the areas of life ruled by the house. It is in these areas that we should aim to make deep attachments rather than chase superficial and temporary emotional thrills if we are seeking out a genuine feeling of belonging and emotional fulfillment. It's important to note that house positions are quite sensitive to birth times.

This is a position that can indicate a deep longing for stimulation above and beyond the everyday, mundane routine. With the Moon in your ninth house, you may be a philosophical sort, interested in and curious about the world, other people, and perhaps different cultures. You can be extraordinarily restless and discontented if you don't have a definite goal in mind.

You might find yourself longing to be somewhere else when you are unhappy, imagining that if you were to move or travel, you would be much more satisfied. However, this attitude may keep you from enjoying and improving upon the situation you are now in, only serving to make you feel more unhappy in the present and with your current circumstances. Trying to avoid the attitude that "the grass is greener on the other side" will be important in your life, while attending to your needs to get away from time to time will help scratch the seemingly incurable itch for something more! Many people with this position feel they thrive best away from the early neighborhood or in places where they can break free of the bonds of childhood conditioning.

The desire to start fresh, change the scenery, and enjoy a break from routine is often very strong! On an emotional level, you are somewhat of a vagabond or wanderer, and you can make yourself at home in almost any setting. You are always seeking to grow, learn, improve, and gain perspective, and this may be the reason behind the frequent desire to be on the move or to break free of habits or routines. You have a distinctly spiritual side to your nature that is vastly important to you and your sense of security, and you may embrace the idea of a guide, mentor, or guardian angel. Your understanding of the world and human nature is intuitive and natural.

Mercury in Tenth House

You are good with language, and you're likely to use this talent in your profession. You can have an authoritative air about you, or you are talented at communicating and negotiating with those in authority. You might have more than one job going at once much of the time, you could change your career directions frequently, or you could be attracted to jobs that keep you on the move. You enjoy frequent changes of setting or activities in order to remain stimulated and challenged, but you're also fully capable of a structured approach to your work. In fact, feeling secure about what you're doing is most important to you, as you feel incredibly uncomfortable with things you don't know well. You abhor being taken off guard and will go out of your way to avoid such situations. You are skilled at bringing fresh energy to your conversations or to your job, perhaps because you thrive on the stimulation.

These traits are Mercury in the tenth house in pure form and are modified by Mercury's sign and aspects. [Note that house positions are highly dependent on birth time.]

Venus in Ninth House

With Venus in the ninth house of your chart, you crave a bit of excitement, and you're attracted to new experiences and things. You have a distinctly spiritual side to you, no matter how earthy or practical other considerations may be in your chart. You are a very inspired and inspiring person who's enthusiastic and ready and willing to share your insights with others. In fact, you love to share good news or great ideas, and you enjoy bringing out the best in others. You are attracted to, or you tend to attract, people of different cultural backgrounds or those who have a sense of adventure. You are not especially clingy, and you expect a certain amount of freedom in a partnership. You want to feel like you are growing as an individual, and you're unlikely to be happy in a relationship that is restrictive or confining. In fact, you have a great love for a feeling of freedom or limitlessness. Your hips and thighs may be especially attractive!

You appreciate a lover who is enthusiastic and not afraid to have a good time (with you!). You aspire to high ideals in love. Some of you might pursue sensations in love rather than true or deep feelings and attachment. Beware of a tendency for dissatisfaction with what you have, as the tendency to think that the "grass is greener" elsewhere can keep you from enjoying or developing what you have.

Mars in Tenth House

An urge to organize can amount to a minor obsession with this position! Your career motivation is constant and relentless, and people in your life need to respect your independent drive and focus. You are task-oriented, and you are at your best and most effective when you are in control of your time. In your relationships, you may often take the lead when it comes to organizing activities.

With Mars in the tenth house, you can be quite driven, goal-oriented, and competitive. You thrive in careers in which you can pioneer, take the lead, or enjoy a certain amount of freedom or independence. You're a self-starter! You also need to be active and dominant in your field or profession. You are more interested in pursuing your goals than gaining others' approval, and this can certainly create some waves in your life from time to time.

Jupiter in Third House

With Jupiter in the third house of your chart, you are forward-looking--a real planner. You are endlessly curious and enjoy making happy connections with others. Sharing ideas with others is important to you. In fact, you take great pleasure in doing so, and this may be why many people with this position are good teachers and enjoy guiding others. You are able to see the big picture and thus often are turned to for advice. You are sincerely interested in others, and you quickly put people at ease in social situations.

Saturn in First House

With Saturn in the first house of your natal chart, you take your responsibilities seriously. You're also highly aware of your personal reputation, body, and mannerisms. This heightened self-awareness can sometimes lead to self-consciousness or guardedness.

One of the biggest struggles of this placement is recognizing how much responsibility and duty to take on, as doing too much or too little can impact you and your health more than most people. While you assume new responsibilities begrudgingly, you also take them to heart and accept them too readily. You take your moral obligations more seriously than most people. Especially aware of the rules that keep society civil, you avoid overstepping your bounds. You believe in exercising restraint.

With this placement, especially if Saturn is close to the Ascendant (conjunct it), you may come across more seriously and even sternly than you intend. There's some reserve or rigidity in your personal presentation--you tend to overthink it! People's first impressions of you are that you're reliable, serious, practical, calm, or grounded. Some may find you intimidating until they get to know you. It can also be difficult for you to break down your walls.

As you navigate life, you'll find that with patience and experience, you'll improve assertiveness and self-confidence. Your hard work, punctuality, and dependability are admirable traits. While it's not always easy for you to relax, especially in new situations, remember that self-censoring and hesitancy to embrace new experiences can be temporary hurdles. With time and effort, you'll learn to trust the flow of life and embrace new opportunities. You'll probably take your time considering these things, as your approach is practical and measured, but you'll open yourself to more possibilities.

This position sometimes indicates limitations in early life or being saddled with more burdens and responsibilities than most. Possible health issues if Saturn is challenged natively or by transit include bone or tooth issues, headaches, and sinus problems. The appearance is either aged, poised, or distinguished.

Improving overall health and wellness involves learning to trust your instincts and working on self-esteem. Something in your early life may have convinced you that you should take on others' responsibilities, and this is just untrue. You somehow picked up the message that you are unattractive or not attractive enough--another untruth. Healthy self-assertion and self-image are vital. Learning that you have the right to express yourself and your needs or wants without disclaimers is essential to your self-development. You also do best when you learn to laugh at yourself.

Uranus in First House

Uranus in the first house of your natal chart signifies a unique individuality that you project with strength. Unless Saturn is involved with Uranus, you approach new endeavors with a confident, positive spirit. Your talents, intuition, and unpredictability make you stand out. You're not one to follow the crowd, often moving toward what's untried or innovative, forging your own path. Your strong desire for personal freedom and choices is a defining characteristic. In fact, you can come on strong with your choices. Maintaining your space is of utmost importance to you.

You're innovative and forward-looking, often balking at tradition, especially regarding your independence, personal freedom, new horizons, self-motivation, assertion, initiative, and personal responsibility. You don't feel the need to conform in these areas! You may believe in breaking through inhibitions or taboos regarding pursuing your desires. As strong as you appear, you can be quite sensitive both mentally and physically. It's as if you have a stronger connection than most to the environment around you.

Your first instinct isn't to follow the rules or conform. Refusing to be labeled, you'd prefer to be a pioneer or trailblazer and can be very inventive. You are often ready to take some risks if it means you separate yourself from others or deviate from norms or expectations. Others find you fascinating--you make an impression! Upon first meeting, some people can find you offbeat, odd, different, or unusual. Abhorring superficiality, you need to be true to yourself. Of course, this can cause disruptions at times. You are not afraid of being provocative.

While this astrological placement brings the excitement you desire, it's crucial to consider the potential challenges. Impatience, lack of follow-through, and restlessness can sometimes limit this freedom. It's a delicate balance that you need to navigate. Despite being independent and stubborn at times, you're quick to move on and pick yourself up if there's been a setback or detour. Following routines can be a challenge, although this issue isn't insurmountable with some workarounds.

This position is sometimes associated with acne, bronchitis, allergies, nervous problems, distinct personality quirks, dyslexia, abrupt changes, rebelliousness, high-wired energy or scattered energy, ups and downs with inspiration, unusual movements or behavior, spasms, and dysautonomia. Musicality, inventiveness, an affinity to science and technology, anarchism, unconventionality, reformism, and altruism are also themes.

Neptune in Second House

You prefer not to attach too much value to money, but if this is overdone, there can be quite a few problems in your life concerning money and ownership. You might make money through artistic pursuits, but you should watch for the potential pitfalls of putting too much faith in ideas that don't have enough grounding in reality. In this case, financial advice is imperative to obtain.

You may develop a non-materialistic personal philosophy. This can certainly work well for you, particularly if Neptune is well-supported in your chart. However, it could also lead to impractical attitudes and money problems. When it comes to making money, you tend to act on hunches and intuition. You might have faith that you will come into money one day, or daydream a lot about being wealthy! The trick is to have faith in your own self-worth. If you frequently have money problems, you might want to examine whether you truly are not attached to material things, or if at the root of your personal philosophy, you are actually undervaluing your worth or value.

When Neptune is in good condition in the second house, there can be a sense that you are wealthy no matter what you actually have, and this faith can bring you exactly what you need. If Neptune is challenged, you may be glossing over practical details, and money can too easily slip through your fingers. You might be unusually generous, but avoid situations where you get the short end of the stick financially speaking if they lead to feelings of resentment.

Pluto in Twelfth House

You are inclined to go deep, to explore the meaning of your dreams, and to analyze your personal psychology. You're also quite adept at comprehending others' motives. You may discover that you have healing powers and that you tune in quite quickly to others' struggles and vulnerabilities, understanding more than most. You may become deeply involved when helping others, perhaps even at your own risk at times. You consider others' backstories and have a strong empathy as a result, with a sense that we're all quite capable of good and evil. You may, however, keep very many things to yourself, which could eventually impact your health. Ask yourself if some of your secrets are truly necessary, as your first instinct may be to keep things to yourself when a more direct approach would be less complicated. Watch, too, for being your own worst enemy. A perhaps hidden part of you may be seeking a challenge or to push your boundaries, and if not understood and managed, you may jump into troubles impulsively or be the victim of unconscious reactions that undermine you. You might have more unusual, peculiar, or serendipitous experiences in your life than most others as a result of this. This position is sometimes associated with powerful or unexpected enemies. It can also indicate dark, intense dreams—more so for you than most.

Chiron in Seventh House

With Chiron in your seventh house, at your core, you champion the belief in seeing all sides of a story and meeting people halfway. This belief in equality is a testament to your profound wisdom about relationships, making you an exceptional counselor. However, despite these powerful beliefs and philosophies, it can be challenging to put them into practice in your own life. For instance, you may find yourself frequently giving more than you receive, even with your deep-rooted belief in equality.

Relationships, especially one-on-one, committed, or partnership connections, provide you with much inspiration, and they can often be the area of great transformation and important life lessons. Interpersonal conflicts can cause anxiety, guilt, or emotional crises in your life. The ups and downs of your connections ultimately shape your empathy and broad perspective on relationships in general.

You bring a unique perspective to partnerships, one that doesn't readily conform to the status quo, expectations, or traditions you grew up with. You have an attraction to, and a tendency to attract, partners and relationships that others might see as unusual or needing repair. The damaged or the underdog can be appealing.

Healing themes often dominate your closest one-to-one relationships, such as best friendships or marriages. However, it's important to be mindful of being in the position of a "stepping stone" for others one too many times. This can happen if others learn from you and move on to apply what they've learned in new relationships. You have much to offer, but it's crucial to maintain balanced partnerships rather than allowing relationships to become more about learning experiences than a true give-and-take.

Even outside of your partnerships, you often find yourself in the role of a counselor, guiding others to be their best or providing them with valuable perspective and insight. This is a testament to your innate ability to understand and empathize with others, and it's a role that you can embrace and excel in.

Black Moon Lilith in Sixth House

North Node in Sixth House

The theory behind the Nodes of the Moon (the North Node and South Node) suggests that we all come into this world with some underdeveloped and overdeveloped aspects of our character. The Nodes of the Moon point us to these specific qualities: the South Node represents our overdeveloped character traits that we automatically fall back upon. We're talented here, but if we overdo this area of life or hold onto these traits to feel secure, we may undermine our lives or prevent growth. On the other hand, the North Node suggests the qualities that we need to work on and develop to achieve inner balance.

With your North Node in the sixth house, your South Node is naturally in the twelfth house.

You can often feel stuck in the past, and your path is to be present more often - to take charge of your daily affairs rather than fall back on disorder or escape. Aim to be more procedural in your approach rather than emotional from time to time, and you will be happier and more fulfilled. Pay more attention to details and routines, even if these feel uncomfortable at first.

Part of Fortune in Eleventh House

Vertex in Eighth House

Developing and embracing your passion, focus, and ability to throw yourself into a special pursuit or relationship can be especially transformative and meaningful for you. It can feel like your destiny! Merging, connecting, and bravely exploring your desires and ambitions takes effort and time, but as you go along, these things come more naturally to you. Fated events create important turning points in your life, and these often relate to others' support or finances, a huge passion project, or a passionate relationship.

Aspects

Sun Square Uranus (orb 3°50')

With the Sun square Uranus in your natal chart, your identity is intricately woven with a profound sense of personal freedom. This aspect empowers you to resist any attempts to steer you in a direction that doesn't align with your inner compass, as you perceive such efforts as encroachments on your freedom.

In truth, you have a love-hate relationship with your own uniqueness. Most of the time, you are proud of your original personality. Other times, you can feel a bit left out for being "different." Although you are a humanitarian in many ways, you can be a little brusque when it comes to sentimentality or what you perceive as excessive attachment to the past or to tradition.

You are dynamic, and you question tradition and authority. At the same time, you can be quite set in your own ways. This means that while you're open to new ideas and ways of doing things, you also have your own established methods and beliefs that you stick to.

With the Sun and Uranus challenging one another around the time of your birth, you may experience themes of nervous energy and defensiveness. This could manifest as difficulty in maintaining a regular schedule or developing steady routines. In truth, you work best when you can manage your own schedules. You work in spurts --when you are hit with creative inspiration, you're capable of tremendous effort.

You can be quite temperamental, and you're averse to putting your heart and soul into anything that doesn't feel right at the moment. This can be a challenge in a world that often requires consistency and commitment. You despise superficiality or pretense, which is an admirable trait. However, your disdain for pretense can be problematic when you're expected to perform whether you are inspired or not! Understanding this about yourself can help you choose activities and projects that align with your current inspiration, while also learning to balance your need for authenticity with the demands of the world.

You don't always feel you "fit in" with the rules and structures of society. However, if you recognize the need to conform some of the time, you might discover you can channel your high levels of inventiveness and spiritedness into creative endeavors or important causes. You might also find that you encounter much less resistance in day-to-day life this way.

Themes sometimes associated with the Sun square Uranus are insomnia, anxiety, issues with electricity, vision disturbances, twitching, unpredictable mood swings, and spasms. You need healthy outlets for your nervous tension and sensitivity. Traits to develop include consistency and continuity.

You're a revolutionary, and you're often ahead of your time. However, it's vital that you watch for inadvertently living for others by indiscriminately rebelling against them. In other words, if you're answering only to yourself, you might go the popular route some of the time and the unpopular route the rest of the time. This is far more authentic than only doing the opposite of what is expected of you. In truth, you're magnetic and a natural, if unpredictable or moody, leader. You're also exceptionally talented and unique.

Sun Square Chiron (orb 3°21')

With the Sun square Chiron in your natal chart, something about your early experiences had you struggling to be seen or made you feel performing or being in the spotlight was uncomfortable. In some way, your creativity or self-expression was stifled in your youth, but how you overcome these feelings over the years is what makes you stand out and gives you tremendous character.

You do well at boosting others' confidence, primarily because you're so sensitive to feeling neglected or underestimated. With Chiron, there is a tendency to overcompensate due to this hyper-awareness. You learn to be highly inspiring, good at giving pep talks and offering very friendly and sincere advice. Healing yourself is not as straightforward!

Nevertheless, some people with this aspect express their discomfort with being the center of attention by living vicariously through someone else who they build up. Of course, it's remarkable how well you boost others, but if you neglect doing this work on yourself, there can be some consequences for your well-being.

While you allow others to shine, you are not a follower. The idea of groupthink and following the crowd is particularly unappealing to you. Your independent thinking is not a rebellious act, but a validation of your need to process and think things through. You instinctively understand that rebelling can still keep you tied to others' expectations and ideas, even if you're opposing them. You're a problem-solver and critical thinker, and you value your autonomy in deciding what to do or think.

Sun Sextile Ascendant (orb 0°59')

With the Sun and the Ascendant in sextile aspect to one another, it's natural for you to be well-received by others. There's a distinct air of authority and magnanimity that surrounds you, but it's not intimidating. The authority you project is not offensive, primarily due to the natural sincerity that goes with it. Unless the Ascendant or Sun are otherwise quite challenged, most will describe you as natural, easy to like, and friendly. People notice you more than most, but it's in a way that makes them feel at ease and comfortable.

You're incredibly perceptive and resourceful. When you need it, you can successfully draw upon your ability to focus, concentrate, diagnose, and discern matters intelligently.

Highly observant, you quickly grasp a situation, but you're also inclined to investigate things fully, preferring not to jump to conclusions or miss anything important. You're crafty, persuasive, subtle, skeptical, and critical. Not content with superficial explanations, you approach learning and special topics deeply.

People take great interest in your insights, ideas, and viewpoints. Even so, when young, you may have felt your interests and mindset were far different than those of other kids. With maturity and experience, your unique mind will likely be seen as valuable.

Leave it to you to solve a complex problem or mystery! You're strategic in your thinking and communicating.

With Mars in harmonious aspect to Neptune, you have a powerful sense of mystery, nuance, and drama. You're intriguing and magnetic--people want to know more about you, and you leave a lasting impression on others.

You seek a life mission, or you naturally gravitate to one! Fundamentally sensitive and romantic, you see all the layers of a situation and won't draw rigid conclusions. In fact, vibes are everything to you. Even if many other factors in your chart favor the intellect, this Mars-Neptune aspect indicates a powerful reliance on instincts and intuition. You naturally feel out situations. Spiritual sustenance is essential to you in virtually any pursuit.

You can be very persuasive and inspiring, as well. Others want to do things for you, and it's easy to enjoy! You visualize what you want and often find yourself attracting it. You're idealistic, believing in the dream. Taking after or benefiting from a parent can be marked with this position. You can be artistically talented and notably creative.

Your methods are rarely straightforward--the route to fulfilling your desires is often meandering, creative, and unique. Because you appreciate the unusual, you attract out-of-the-ordinary experiences into your life. You can be a healer with a gentle but powerful touch. Your senses work overtime. Working on inspiration as your fuel, you are capable of much when you're motivated. However, you're not one who would step over others to achieve.

Mars Sextile Pluto (orb 2°29')

This Mars-Pluto aspect adds a layer of intensity, strategy, and resourcefulness to the personality. You are committed, determined, and passionate. For you, it's all or nothing, and you are baffled by--and possibly impatient with--people who do things only halfway or half-heartedly. You are usually quite decisive and often unwavering once committed.

Certainly a passionate person, you possess a fascinating and commanding aura. You are self-motivated, physical, and generally confident in your talents. What sets you apart from others is your easy relationship with your subconscious, deeper desires, and ambitions. You're satisfied most when you're regenerating or transforming yourself or circumstances.

You employ strategy when going after something, and you are very talented at this, saving time and energy. While you are perfectly capable of outwitting others as a natural psychologist, whether you take advantage of this skill or not depends much on other factors in your natal chart.

You're naturally very resourceful and usually quite persistent when pursuing a goal. You are a wonderful person to be around when there's a crisis--very little fazes you, and you're especially effective when circumstances call for a leader. No one can bribe or manipulate you, either. It's not easy to get one past you.

You innately understand passion, anger, and complicated desires and power dynamics. Generally, you can channel these things well. Your courage is also innate--you can draw upon it when needed, especially to stick up for yourself or others or to do what's required in order to carry on. More readily than most, you'll get your hands dirty if absolutely necessary. People can count on you not only in times of crisis or problems but also for unquestioned support for embarrassing or complex matters.

When motivated, you're determined and focused. You have staying power! What's under the surface of things, hidden, buried, or misunderstood intrigues you. A natural detective and strategist, you don't always follow a straight line. You are uncomfortable with things done halfway or half-heartedly.

In relationships, you seek depth, rawness, ecstasy, passion, and intensity. Superficial connections are of little interest to you. This aspect in your natal chart boosts your personal appeal and magnetism.

Mars Sextile Vertex (orb 2°55')

Mars Conjunction Midheaven (orb 1°26')

Jupiter Square Pluto (orb 5°2')

With Jupiter square Pluto in your birth chart, you have big plans and ambitions, and some might say too big at times! You benefit from great resourcefulness, and if you can tame your tendency to go overboard, you can do well with this trait. You can have an all-or-nothing approach to life. This can be one indication of high levels of material success or wealth.

You are driven and might make important contacts with people who can help you achieve your goals. It will be important to watch for compulsive, over-the-top, or know-it-all behavior. Power is enticing but should be used wisely. Your drive to control can sometimes lead to conflicts with authority. Dissatisfaction with your current lot in life can be used as motivation to reach higher, but if it's a perpetual issue (that is, you never feel content with your accomplishments), then you might want to ask yourself if expansion is always necessary. Take the time to count your smaller blessings and achievements.

Jupiter Square North Node (orb 2°43')

With Jupiter forming a square to the North Node of the Moon, your social views and values don't always mesh with current thought. You are an individualist, unafraid of going against the grain. Additionally, you are not fond of social niceties, preferring to say it like it is.

However, it would be best if you watched for glossing over important details. It's relatively easy for you to jump to conclusions. You also seem to attract life lessons, often through conflict or jarring events.

You're an individualistic and free thinker, and you can be quarrelsome. Frequent conflicts due to disharmonious ideas or values are possible in your lifetime. You might also have more problems than most with social institutions.

1. Please be patient when entering your birth city to allow the program to call up the list of locations as sometimes it's not instantaneous. If you're just not getting results and can't submit, it may be that the atlas is busy (GeoNames has certain limits per hour and per day). In this case, you can use this same tool on my sister site, Astrology Cafe here.
2. It's important to enter the city name only or the first several letters of the city in the Birth City field, not the country, island, or state/province/region. For example, if you were born in Fuzhou, Fujian, China, you should enter "fuzhou" or similar and not "fujian" or "china." It's better not to overtype – for best results, type in the CITY name and scroll through the list for the correct city.
3. *Important: Under normal circumstances, you don't need to change the time zone offset. Please don't adjust the time zone offset unless you know for certain what you're doing since the default offsets incorporate crucial factors, such as daylight savings time, and are in the majority of cases accurate. There may be discrepancies as with all historical time zone atlases, particularly for birth years before 1970, so if you need help with the time zone offset value, send an email to reports@cafeastrology.com. Be sure to mention why you're writing and include full birth data.
4. Note: if there is an error in the Geonames atlas service (that is, if the service cannot find the time zone temporarily), the UTC offset will state "false" instead of a numerical value. Before pressing Submit, please change "false" to the appropriate time zone numeral. If you need help with determining this number, write to reports@cafeastrology.com.
